AIR ENDS

As a global association, AIR empowers higher education professionals to use data, information, and analytics in ways that are effective, ethical, and equitable. AIR supports data-informed decision making that amplifies student and institutional success.

These must be done within AIR's available resources and in such a manner that the value to higher education is worth the investment of those resources.

- A. AIR educates higher education professionals and organizations on the value and role of institutional research and institutional effectiveness.
- B. AIR provides opportunities for professionals to develop the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to implement and lead data-informed cultures within higher education through:
 - Contextualizing data throughout higher education;
 - Learning methods and tools of the institutional research and institutional effectiveness profession;
 - Sustaining and advancing data literacy;
 - Conducting research and scholarship.
- C. AIR provides and promotes equitable opportunities for the development of diverse and inclusive professional networks.

CONTEXTUAL INFORMATION FOR 2024 REPORTING

Global Policy Language

As a global association, AIR empowers higher education professionals to use data, information, and analytics in ways that are effective, ethical, and equitable. AIR supports data-informed decision making that amplifies student and institutional success. These must be done within AIR's available resources and in such a manner that the value to higher education is worth the investment of those resources.

Interpretation - vision of success (2024)

AIR works at the intersection of people and data to build the individual and institutional competencies necessary to use data, information, and analytics in ways that are effective, ethical, and equitable.

Therefore, AIR programs, services, and resources are designed to serve the interests of three primary constituencies:

1. Higher education professionals, especially AIR members. AIR seeks to educate, elevate, connect, and support professionals who produce, analyze, and use data.
2. Higher education institutions. AIR works to build, sustain, and support institutional capacity and capabilities to use data and analytics for better decision making and institutional improvement.
3. Higher education community. AIR facilitates the informed use of data and analytics within higher education systems, institutions, and policies through advocacy and partnerships.

Historically, AIR has largely focused on serving individual professionals – “empowering higher education professionals to use data, information, and analytics in ways that are effective, ethical, and equitable.” More recently AIR has intensified and expanded its efforts to serve institutions and the broader community through programs such as the Data Literacy Institute (DLI) and the addition of organizational membership. The new Global Ends language codifies these expanded efforts as part of AIR's mission, noting that “AIR supports data-informed decision making that amplifies student and institutional success.”

Within the three constituent groups, AIR strives to include diversity of perspectives, approaches, and backgrounds to advance and model the effective, ethical, and equitable use of data, information, and analytics. This includes working with the AIR community to co-create and sustain a welcoming and inclusive association in which individuals find a sense of belonging, connection, and respect.

Framework for Success Indicators

The Executive Office has three operational priorities for 2024. The priorities are not intended to encompass all of AIR's programs, events, or activities – many of which are important to the AIR community and AIR's financial viability. However, these priorities are areas of special focus to advance AIR's continued progress, sustainability, and expansion.

1. Grow and retain individual and organizational members.
2. Continue to develop and implement the systems, expertise, and infrastructure necessary to deploy professional services and technical assistance to institutions.
3. Improve internal use of data and technology for decisions, operations, and programming.

The allocation of time, resources, and money allocated to the operational priorities will be considered and balanced with ongoing commitments and activities. In the words of the Ends, "be done within AIR's available resources and in such a manner that the value to higher education is worth the investment of those resources." Specific considerations and commitments that will be balanced include the following.

- The achievement of grant and contract deliverables.
- Delivery of a successful AIR Forum within a changing environment.
- The staff capacity, required expertise, and organizational infrastructure necessary.
- The level and sustainability of projected revenue streams and the size and composition of the audience.
- The value and benefit of the program, resource, or service to the AIR community.

B. Policy Language

AIR provides opportunities for professionals to develop the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to implement and lead data-informed cultures within higher education through:

- Contextualizing data throughout higher education;
- Learning methods and tools of the institutional research and institutional effectiveness profession;
- Sustaining and advancing data literacy;
- Conducting research and scholarship.

Interpretation – vision of success

The learning and professional practice needs of higher education professionals will be supported by AIR through quality programming, resources, and peer networks that help to develop the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to implement and lead data-informed cultures within higher education.

AIR will offer an array of professional education and training opportunities for stakeholders at various stages of their careers as described in the subsequent interpretations for Policies B-1 through B-4.

As an essential element of this work, AIR will equip its community members with the knowledge, skills, and abilities to better address issues of equity and ethics when using data, information, and analytics within their roles. Collectively, these learning opportunities will help professionals develop as individuals and leaders within their organizations and the higher education community.

2023-2024 Policy B Success Indicators

2023-2024 Indicators	Results as of July 2024
1. Convene the third AIR LEADs (Leadership with Evidence, Analytics, and Data) cohort in late summer or early fall of 2024. At the conclusion of the course, at least 75% of the participants will rate the experience as valuable.	The next LEADs course will begin with a virtual kick-off on August 8. The in-person seminar will be in DC, August 22-23. The course is at maximum capacity of 70.
2. Host at least two learning opportunities in 2024 for the AIR community on the ethical and/or equitable use of data and analytics.	Learning opportunities as of 6/30/2024 that focused on the use of data and analytics to support equity or ethics. PDP Workshops <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Using the PDP to Understand Academic Equity ▪ Using the PDP to Support a Student-Centered Continuous Quality Improvement Plan 2024 AIR Forum Workshops <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ How Can Our Work Promote Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) on Campus?

Success Indicators (2024-2025)

1. Host at least two learning opportunities in 2024-2025 for the AIR community on the ethical and/or equitable use of data and analytics.
2. Offer the AIR LEADs course annually with at least 75% of the participants (who complete the evaluation) rating the experience as valuable.¹

B-1. Policy Language

*AIR provides opportunities for professionals to develop the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to implement and lead data-informed cultures within higher education through...contextualizing data throughout higher education.

Interpretation – vision of success

AIR will boost the capabilities of higher education professionals to contextualize data. “Contextualize data” is broadly defined as the ability of individuals to interpret and understand the meaning of data within the surrounding circumstances, settings, influences, and/or information.

AIR’s courses and workshops will include learning outcomes that prioritize the acquisition of the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary for professionals to contextualize data through higher education and at their institutions. AIR will also provide opportunities for our community to learn more about the current higher education environment, such as emerging issues, trends, and policies.

¹ The 75% figure used across the success indicators is consistent with what is considered a “good” Customer Satisfaction Scores (CSAT) across industries, typically between 65% and 80%. The 2024 average CSAT score for “education” is 66%. See <https://www.rentent.com/blog/customer-satisfaction-score-csat/>. The 75% is also based on the professional judgment and experience of AIR staff who consider a 75% satisfied/valued/recommended rating as the floor value for our education, training, or events.

1. Offer two instances of the Holistic Approach to IR course annually with at least 75% of participants rating the experience as valuable.
2. Offer the AIR LEADs course annually with at least 75% of the participants (who complete the evaluation) rating the experience as valuable.
3. Offer at least two opportunities for AIR members annually to learn more about the higher education policy, legislative and/or regulatory environment, and the potential implications for their work.

B-2. Policy Language

AIR provides opportunities for professionals to develop the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to implement and lead data-informed cultures within higher education through ...learning methods and tools of the institutional research and institutional effectiveness profession.

Interpretation – vision of success

The “methods and tools of the IR and IE profession” is defined as the “knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary for the effective, ethical, and equitable production, use, and communication of data and analyses for decision-making.”

While the methods and tools of “institutional research” and “institutional effectiveness” are often dependent on the local institutional context, IR typically includes a greater emphasis on conducting student success research and compliance reporting while IE typically includes a greater emphasis on assessment, accreditation, and planning.

AIR will provide a diverse set of opportunities and resources for professionals to learn and apply the methods and tools of the IR and IE profession. These opportunities and resources will include an in-person conference (the AIR Forum) and other in-person training; online courses, workshops, and webinars; publications and newsletters; and surveys and research. AIR will also provide the training and education necessary for compliance with IPEDS reporting requirements and IPEDS data use. The training is offered free of charge to the higher education community and is funded through a subcontract with the U.S. Department of Education’s National Center for Education Statistics (NCES).

With the addition of “institutional effectiveness” to this policy, AIR will investigate ways to augment its programming and resources with the methods and tools typically associated with the IE profession.

*AIR provides opportunities for professionals to develop the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to implement and lead data-informed cultures within higher education through ...sustaining and advancing data literacy.

Interpretation – vision of success

The ability to implement and lead a data-informed culture within a higher education institution depends in large part on the collective efforts of its faculty and staff. AIR will provide opportunities for professionals to improve the knowledge, skills, habits, and mindsets necessary for sustaining and advancing data literacy.
